PhDs

All PhD students at the UAB may develop and present their thesis research in English. According to the UAB's PhD regulations RD 99/2011 (article 359), doctoral theses must be written and defended in any of the official languages in Catalonia, or in any of the usual scientific communication languages in the particular field of study. English is a usual scientific communication language in most fields of study, thus PhD students will always be able to conduct their PhD studies at the UAB in English.
